THE REAL ESTATE REPORT

HOW TO SELL YOUR HOME THIS SUMMER

Maximize the Okanagan's hot season to your advantage

Selling your home in the Okanagan during the summer presents a unique opportunity to showcase its charm. It's an ideal time to capture the attention of potential buyers who are eager to experience the relaxed, outdoor-oriented lifestyle of valley life. Here are some essential tips to prepare your home for a successful sale:

First Looks

First impressions matter greatly. Start with enhancing your curb appeal. Ensure lawns are well-manicured, flower beds are tidy, and pathways are clear. Consider adding colourful potted plants to add a pop of seasonal colour.

Keep Your Cool

Since the summers can get quite warm, ensure your home is cool and inviting. Consider installing ceiling fans or providing portable fans during showings. Open windows to let in fresh air, and if possible, showcase any outdoor living spaces such as patios or decks that offer shade.

Open Interest

Highlight the indoor-outdoor flow of your home. Clean windows and sliding doors to maximize natural light and views of the picturesque surroundings. If you have a pool or access to a lake or beach, emphasize these features as part of the Okanagan lifestyle experience.

Tidy Sales

Declutter and depersonalize your interiors. Summer is a time for light and airy spaces, so pack away heavy winter items and excess belongings. Neutralize décor to appeal to a broad range of buyers while allowing them to envision their own style in the space. Ensure your home is well-maintained. Fix any minor repairs, such as leaky faucets or squeaky doors, to present a move-in ready condition.

Welcome Home

Leverage the summer ambiance to create a welcoming atmosphere. Consider placing a bowl of fresh Okanagan fruit in the kitchen or setting up a refreshing drink station to keep potential buyers comfortable during viewings.
